

How to Apply Love to My Business and My Life

WHO	HOW
My Customers Without my customers I have no business and I will treat them with such respect and importance.	<ul style="list-style-type: none">-Telling them that I appreciate them.-Providing excellent customer service.- Sending free gifts and doing great value promotions and sales.- Only selling quality products and services.
My Business I owe it to my business to do my best by working with poignancy and purpose.	<ul style="list-style-type: none">-Creating and following a strategy instead of just seeing what happens.-Prioritizing and giving my time and best efforts to my most important work instead of working without purpose.-Learning and developing new skills to give my business every possible edge.
My Family An entrepreneur greatly benefits from a support network that believes in them and supports their ambitions.	<ul style="list-style-type: none">-Knowing when to stop working and give them my undivided attention.-Telling and showing them that I appreciate them.-Working to create a better future for them.
Myself Since I am my business, neglecting myself is the same as neglecting my business.	<ul style="list-style-type: none">- Working in a beautiful and organized space with fresh flowers and my favorite things.-Taking care of myself by eating, sleeping and exercising correctly.-Allowing myself to take breaks and get away when I need to recharge.
